

Science of the Seasons:

A Project Based Learning workshop on exploring and connecting with your natural world through simple observations

Sequoia National Park. Foothills Rec Hall. June 15, 2015

Great for professional and aspiring naturalists, phenologists, educators, and nature enthusiasts, this free workshop explores phenology, the study of seasonal biological events like migrations and flowering. Learn how you can use phenology to connect your students or community to science and the natural world.

For more information visit www.nps.gov/sek/forteachers

To register, contact Kelly Evans Kelly_A_Evans@nps.gov 559-565-3719.

